

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

UNITED WORLDS AUTHORITY

Submitted by Stephen L. Baker

In the mid 70's it became clear to me that our so-called 'Modern Life' had forgotten the prime values that make a society strong and enduring. Rather than fuss, complain and accomplish nothing, I decided to warn as many as I could through an entertaining book. Then, due to a growing family (my main interest) and an active job, I filed each chapter into large folders until I retired, which I did in 2007. I chose the science fiction genre since I have read much of it in early years and because of its unique ability to display the flaws of our time. This exposure is done by creating another species with mirror images of our values. As we are the wrong, their society is the right. At the end of 2009, my self-published novel, United Worlds Authority, was published. Barnes & Noble has ordered some and my wish to revitalize the values of respect, honor, word (keeping it), belief, and responsibility, will come true. Many will not like this book. It is a conservative's science fiction. 94 pages are provided on the website UnitedWorldsAuthority.com. I am 74 years old and hope to make some positive impact on the human society before I check out. My wife (of 72 years) and I have three young grandchildren and we want them to exist in a strong, mature, and stable society. We would be elated if one of the book's testimonials comes true, the novel becomes a movie. This would have a positive impact on our crazy world, as your TV ads have already done. We have noticed that people are starting to think of others rather than only of themselves.
